Whereabouts Information

Article 3.2 of the CA ADP outlines the obligations of athletes, including the provision whereabouts information. In practice, this means timely and accurate information regarding your training and competition programs and your contact details relevant to where you will be located within a given period. The Australian protocols for compliance with this obligation are determined in conjunction with the Australian Sports Anti Doping Authority (ASADA) in accordance with Art 8.3.2 of the CA ADP; information is required on a quarterly basis by completing forms provided by ASADA.

The forms and reminders of this process are circulated to athletes through the CA high performance office.

Supplements

Supplements are not fully regulated in Australia and there is a risk that some supplements may contain ingredients or impurities that could cause a positive test result. It is impossible to guarantee the safety of these products and the athlete remains ultimately responsible for any and all substances that they consume (or supply).

Report Doping Confidentially

Information on doping or associated suspicious activity is critical in the fight against doping in our sport. If you have any such knowledge or information you should forward it in confidence to the CEO; or alternatively, you can submit information confidentially and anonymously direct to ASADA via their website, click here.

Retirement and Reinstatement

The CA Anti-Doping Policy (and World Anti-Doping Code) sets out a number of important obligations for elite athletes wishing to retire or subsequently, return to the sport.
